A Moment With Co-Captain Rell Porter

Read what junior forward Rell Porter had to say about the upcoming season and his experiences at Liberty in a one-on-one interview prior to the start of the 2006-07 season.

As you enter your junior year, what are some of the things that you have learned over your first two years as part of the Liberty Basketball Program?

I learned that experience plays an important key in the game. You can have all the talent in the world, but when you're in certain situations the man with the most experience is going to know what to do at the time. When you are new to it all, you might think you will be able to do something in spite of your talent but it might not be the right thing to do. The player with the experience is going to know what to do in that situation.

How have you liked the entire Liberty experience after spending two years on the Mountain?

It's been fun. I have grown a lot as a person, spiritually, mentally, physically and have matured. You sit back and learn new things everyday here at Liberty. The people I have met have been helpful and supportive in several areas. The professors are all really nice and they do everything they can to help you especially if you have to make up tests or turn in home work at odd times because of athletic travel.

What is it like sharing the floor with Larry Blair?

It is a great experience because he is one of the greatest players to come out of Liberty. He is amazing to watch. He is a great teammate that is unselfish. He will pass the ball and do anything he can to win. He does it all ... passes, scores you name it.

You're a co-captain for a second-straight year with Larry, what expectations do you have of yourself filling that role?

I plan on being more vocal this year. I have led in the past more by example, but this year I find myself speaking up more. I want to be more of a leader and addressing the team on what we need to be doing as a team and what we can't be doing as a team.

Last year was a down year by Liberty standards, what is different about this year's team?

This year we have a team that is willing to work. We had some people that weren't willing to put in the time last season and now everyone goes to the weight room to work hard. Our guys go to practice and they work hard. We are a more unified group that is focused on a single goal.

Who of the newcomers do you see will be key additions to the squad?

Alex McLean, he is going to be a strong presence in the post. Dwight Brewington is a great player as well. B.J. Jenkins is a solid guard who can do it all and was underrated coming out of high school.

What are your goals for this year's squad heading into the 2006-07 season?

My goal is for our team to outrebound every team in every game. Damien [Hubbard] and I were the top two rebounders last year and were both back, while Alex [McLean] is here and should grab a lot of rebounds as well. Dwight [Brewington] is a big guard that can rebound to attain this goal. I want us to win 18-20 games and win the Big South Championship and go to the NCAA Tournament.

Academic Representation

"Professor Esther Alcindor is great because she is there to help you learn the material and takes the time to sit down with her students if they need additional help. Her courses are educational and I leave with a stronger knowledge base than when I walked in."

----Rell Porter, junior forward

The stated academic experience of today's Liberty student-athlete is nobly ambitious. Liberty basketball's mission is to inspire academic goals with each individual student-athlete knowing that success can only be achieved when a stated goal is accomplished.

We believe in helping clarify the direction and equipping our student-athletes for the journey of their success. We define success as a degree in hand and the innate desire to pursue excellence in everything.

Academic Representation

"Having the men's and women's basketball players in the classroom adds an amazing amount of depth to our conversations in class. Specifically, when we talk about the legal, managerial and psychological aspects of sport, the athlete brings a deeper understanding of the topic because they have lived it. It is no longer theoretical or something we have read in a book. They communicate the application of the theory we teach in the classroom."

--- Thomas Bell, Professor of Sports Management in the College Education
